Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 7-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the in-vitro assay method, does not reasonably provide enablement for the treatment of the laundry list of diseases or far less any disease that falls under the inhibition of NF-KB. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

The level of skill in the drug art is the treatment of one disease with one drug. It is very unlikely and unpredictable that one class of drugs can treat a myriad of diseases simultaneously. Applicant's in-vitro test data is insufficient to support the treatment of the all the various diseases listed. One of ordinary skill in the art would have to experiment unduly to find out which diseases are treatable with the instant drug.

Applicant is further requested to elect one disease for examination on the merits.
